

LUCIE THORNE
LAND AND LANGUAGE
04.04.25 – 20.04.25

*Language travels on a wet road,
can spin without warning...
Land is clever
but not magical. Language does not exist until it's made.*

from Tim Thorne's Land and Language, 2018.

Over the past 25 years, Tasmanian born, Melbourne-based artist Lucie Thorne has made a lot of music, writing and releasing over a dozen albums and touring prodigiously across Australia, Europe and North America. She's been lauded for writing "some of the most beautiful songs you will hear" (The Age) and earned her place as a highly skilled and respected musician and producer who has continued to carve out a remarkable creative career.

Over the past two and a half years, Lucie Thorne has made a lot of paintings. In March 2024 she held her first ever exhibition in Melbourne, an overwhelming success, and now we're thrilled to host her second presentation Land and Language. Transcendent excursions in colour and form that emerged from a time of profound grief, these works spring from still life, the landscape and a lyricism devoted to Lucie's father, Tasmanian poet Tim Thorne. The titles of the works and the exhibition are drawn from Tim's poetry, an essential force in animating Lucie's painting practice.
